David Novak: A Telling Experience

David Novak is one of the nation's leading performers in the storytelling revival.

Novak is often featured at the National Storytelling Festival and on concert stages across the country, and was recently the Master Storyteller for The Disney Institute at Walt Disney World in Florida. Recipient of the 2002 Circle Of Excellence award from the National Storytelling Network, Smithsonian Magazine describes him as "a gifted teller who enhances his stories with a bag of tricks. His fluid voice can become a dozen different characters." Barbara Leonard, Artistic Director of the Los Angeles Music Center On Tour says "David Novak embodies the definition of the word creative. He is an entirely original storyteller whose tales are inventions of his imagination or original adaptations of classic fables or myths. His expertise in the art of mime and circus techniques allows him to transform everyday objects and simple props into magical uses for his storytelling."

Texas storyteller, Jeanine Pasini-Beekman, says of Novak: "In him, the Brothers Grimm and Carl Jung meet Monty Python." That about sums it up.
